

Encouraging steps towards Horn Region Common Market

All genuine peace deals are good news for the region at large, not only for certain parties. The two recent developments, the Ogaden peace progresses and the newly passed Kenyan constitution, have to be steps towards a re-unification of the five parts which colonialism had divided the Somali Nation into, followed by a creation of a Horn Region Common Market which would end the insistent attempts by the neighbours of the Somali Nation to reach the Somali coast by force in order to come out of their land-lockedness which for some is also known as "avoiding a big Muslim Nation on the Horn".

Somalis are not escaping away with any thing from their sisterly landlocked neighbours but the approach is wrong if it should be by force financed by the classical enemies of the continent who are still trying to conserve for themselves the natural resources of the continent by deliberately designed long term, never ending conflicts.

To make the Horn Common Market a reality would though need to face some opportunity costs like eradicating and prohibiting all sorts of mass destruction weapons like drugs whether green like the Chat/Qaad/Kat or the like and mass murder habits like those which cause AIDS.

It is better for the West too to undo their atrocities which is the only way they can be sure to have a share of the region's/continent's resources, other wise the region/continent might give such chances to less guilty parties like the Chinese or would at least keep regarding the West as historic and life hostile not to deal with in any way choosing to keep suffering on their resources not exploiting.

Less guilty since the Chinese too recognize the so called OAU charter which was created by the colonial powers simply to maintain territorial conflicts for the region/continent instead of correcting the maps back as they were before the arrival of the colonialists. For the masses of the Horn of Africa Region such so called charter has simply meant "Enslaving Conspiracy" since they as a result lost all their few educated kids and coins in arms and ammunitions on behalf of the conspiring colonialists who were conserving the regions/continent's resources.
